

Children rule at E Wowo di Casibari for Dia di Mucha

It is the wont of Aruban parents to coddle their children, but particularly on their special day, “Dia di Mucha ” (Children’s Day.) E Wowo di Casibari across from the Casibari Rock Formations conducted a special celebration on Sunday, November 26 where kids were kings and queens for the day. Entertainment by children’s groups was the rule, whether dancing or singing, and there were many fun things to do.

There was the biggest blow-up castle in Aruba, pony rides, face painting, and other fun activities to keep them busy from ten in the morning until sunset. Mini-diva Charella Lopez entertained, as did the Chaz Dancers, Young Stars, Sunrise Dance Group of San Nicolaas, Los Sobinitos, and Kids Youth in Action. Many of the children in the audience danced along, while the family shared a nice barbecue lunch.

It was a great way for indulgent parents to coddle their kids for their special day in Aruba.
